He was very interested, so I began to tell him more about Beijing.

It's the same thing that makes people remember when the "psychic" gets things right and forget all the times they were wrong.